into a prison, the broadcast said: "We do not oppose Arab unity. We dispute your claim to Arab leadership."

(In Cairo, meanwhile, Nasser told a mass rally of 250,000 he had cancelled plans for large-scale military actions against Syria after provincial garrisons there joined in the rebellion.

All navy and paratroop forces en route to Syria had been ordered to return to Egypt.

Nasser said he wanted to avoid seeing Arab against Arab.)
Syrian broadcasts declared 200 Egyptian paratroopers sent to put down the rebellion had been wiped out. Other broadcasts said 120 Egyptian commando invaders had been captured without bloodshed. The broadcasts did not make clear whether they were giving different versions of the same action, or whether two Egyptian forces were involved.

The Jordan government of King Hussein, long an opponent of Nasser, quickly recognized the new revolu-tionary government, and wished it success.

Jordan's action was announced immediately after a cabinet meeting presided over by King Hussein.

There was speculation in London that Jordan might follow up her gesture of political support by sending material aid to the Syrian rebels unless the conflict with Nasser is quickly settled. There also was speculation that other Middle East opponents of Nasser might follow Hussein's lead, particularly Premier Abdel Karim Kassem Turkey, which has long had misgivings as to Nasser's plans for a union of all Arab countries, was swift to follow any outside support for the two-day revolt. Both sides have spoken of it as an internal affair.

Now, observers said, it will be difficult for Jordan to escape charges — irrespective of whether there is any truth in them — that it is helping the revolt.

The Communist world will then probably accuse Western imperialism of being behind the rebellion aimed at taking Syria out of the United Arab Republic.

Some British officers have said privately that any change and split up of the U.A.R. could only be for the worse and promote instability in the Arab world.

They feared that a weak independent Syria would be exposed to increasing Communist penetration.

The revolt, it was thought here, represents a serious blow to U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser's prestige and a serious setback to Arabs who see in the U.A.R. the best hope for uniting the Arab world. best hope for uniting the Arab world.

He has only been to one directors' meeting since the gov-ernment took over the com-pany and appointed new directors in August. Mr. Ross is a director of many companies and his business interests are wide and demanding. It is reported that his reason for resigning is that he cannot devote enough time to the affairs of B.C. Electric.

There have been at least four board meetings in less than a month.

There are also reports of a disagreement among the direc-tors over staff and the way in which the new crown company is being run.

Board chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum's reaction to the resig-nation report was: "I can't help you. He hasn't submitted any resignation to me and I don't know of a resignation being submitted anywhere Premier Bennett refused any mment at all. Mr. Ross would not answer direct invitation to confirm or deny the story.

"I was appointed by order-in-council," he said, suggesting that reporters check their sources. There is no new order-in-council today following a cabi-net meeting Thursday which refers to the B.C. Electric. Mr. Ross was appointed to the directors board along with Dr. Shrum, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, former B.C. Electric executive W. C. Mearns, Einar M. Gunderson and lawyer Arthur Fouks. Mr. Ross and Mr. Fouks were given no salary, only directors' fees of $2,500 a year. The other directors got salaries ranging from $27,500 to $40,000 for Dr. Shrum.

Bitter in Defeat

IVI sorry figure as he heaps his final obloquy on the Senate in the tariff ruling dispute.

He tells the Upper Chamber that "must accept the blame" for the loss of thousands of Canadian jobs because it refused to pass without amendment the bill his government sent to it.

The bill would have disallowed any appeal from a decision by the revenue minister defining for tariff purposes imported goods of a 'class or kind" that can be made in Canada.

The Senate saw flaws in the principle of the bill—a measure which would have given one man arbitrary powers of a far-reaching nature. It confined its amendment, however, to one point, the provision of an avenue of appeal against such decisions for an importer who sidered himself injured by them. The right of appeal would not necess sarily have reversed the minister's decision. It would merely have given the appellant a chance to be heard, a chance to submit his case. And an appeal could be made only to the Tariff Board, not to the courts.

Because the Senate stood firm and because the government would not accept even this amendment, the bill has died.

This, says the Prime Minister, thrusts responsibility on the Senate for jobs lost to Canadians.

Mr. Diefenbaker has permitted' his oratory to outrun his sound legal mind and training. He says that the result places the Senate in an untenable position.

Is it, then, a tenable position for the government to insist on arbitrary authority for one ministerwho might or might not be wrong— to the extent that his decisions may never be subject to review by a proper tribunal? What rights does

It became apparent to him early in the discussion that Canadians, anxous as so many of these are for Senate reform, could not be hood-winked by an attack on the Upper Chamber when the Upper Chamber was right.

Mr. Diefenbaker began a re treat. No more was heard about a general election fought on Senate reform. His withdrawal from that phase of the battle, however, did not solve the problem of a bill acceptable to the Senate only if modified by an amendment rejected by the government.

The Prime Minister was advised some time ago by Mr. Arthur Blakely, Ottawa correspondent of The Gazette, the government's recognized organ in Montreal, of the alternatives before him.

Dr. G. W. Halpenny of Mont-real, president of the Canadian Medical Association, offers the advice and points to the situation which now exists in which the pub-lic is being badly misinformed by unethical advertisements over the TV and radio.'

Fight Apathy

The world today faces unprecedented perils.

Too many people are, it seems, completely indifferent to what is happening. International crises following interna-tional crises inure us to the dangers

What dangers? Nuclear weapons, potential destroyers of all life on this planet, permanent polluters of the world atmosphere; together with the animosity of the two world powers, the fears and tensions resulting from the leaders of the East and West refusing to reach agreement are breeding hatreds amongall peoples.

Cuban Unions

A recent issue of the B.C. Lumberworker, the official organ of the IWA, carried a report of the demise of free trade unionism in Cuba where the Castro regime by a decree of August 2 last, has taken over the unions, replacing them with Soviet-style organizations controlled by the government,

But when the opposition members in the House sought more information in the House sought more information on the treasury board's conclusions, as presented to the cabinet, Prime Minister Diefenbaker recalled that it was the policy of Canadian governments since confederation not to affirm or deny any assertions, about representations or statements passing between governmental committees or between departments of government.

Secret Reports

This declaration of secrecy by the prime minister brought exclamations from Liberal members that went down in Hansard as "Oh, oh." They were recalling the now famous "secret economic report" which the prime minister brought into the House after he had been elected in 1957.

That report was "Canadian Economic Outlook," prepared by the economic branch of the department of trade and commerce and delivered in March 1957 to the trade and commerce minister for his information and the information of the cabiner

It was made public in the House by Mr. Diefenbaker, an act that was de-nounced by the former members of the Liberal cabinet as a breach of govern-ment secrecy. Said Liberal member Jack Pickersgill, "The prime minister seemed to take a different view about exchanges between the members of an-other government." other government."

Defence Minister Harkness lost his temper during consideration of the de-fence estimates in the dying days of the session. He had endured three sit-tings of constant opposition attack and criticism. Liberal defence critic Paul Hellyer led the assault.

Finally the Liberal declared the minister/was misleading the House. At this point Mr. Harkness blew. He said he had had enough. He accused his accuse of being childish in their criticism. He said emphatically that he was right and they were wrong He was forthright in his denunciation. He obviously sub-stribes to the theory that the best defence is a vigorous attack.

They don't suit the corpu-lent type with thin legs."

Ergo, we have decided not to have a bonfire this weekend. The decision is just one more of those abounding examples of mutual understanding in our home.

But we can prepare for one. This is a mutual arrangement too. I stagger through the wet underbrush laden with dead branches that have blown down in the high winds since last year's bonfire. She saunters from the house with an assortment of treasures I have been hoarding and she has been try-

Now it isn't, as I have explained to the boss of our house, that I expect this footwear to come back into fashion. But once upon a time I rather fancied myself as a Negro minstrel in the days when being a Negro minstrel conveyed no implications of discrimination or apartheid.

If the worst came to the worst, and I managed to retain "the" boots, I could build up from there a costume suitable for one of the cornier TV acts that receive a big play these days. "The" boots would be about all the talent I'd need. They're hidden in an old teabox up at Montreal reporters and a handful of victorians were thinking further ahead, speculating on the chances that the Habs will train here again next year or, perhaps, in 1963. After seven days of sunny-side up racing, Sandown rode the down escalator Thursday.

The mutuel play was down. Attendance was down, The skies cried and rain came down.

A horse and rider went down. And assorted track personnel saw their wallets go down, courtesy of the stewards. Foreboding skies unleashed bathtub-size draindrops for 30 minutes after the first race, turning the respectably tast track into a dripping mess. It eased off thereafter but the punters never seemed to recover. They whistled a paltry $34.572 through th machines, $9,800 less than the 10 Birtaria Baily Times same day last year.

The betting situation, however, is hardly desperate. At the half-way mark of the 16-day meeting, the handle amounts to $520,175. To miss the million mark the remaining eight days would have to fall flat on their face. This year's handle to date represents an increase of $58,218 over last year.

Baseball managers struggle for security. The only one I know who rejects it is Al Lopez. When he went to Chicago from Cleveland, the White Sox were paying Marty Marion because his two season contract still had a year to go. In his original Chicago season, Lopez took a one year contract and has worked that way by choice ever since.

Offered a three year deal earlier this season, Lopez turned it down and this week signed for another tournament. The long agreement was suggested by Hank Greenberg, who was running the Chicago franchise for the berg, who was running the Chicago franchise for the ailing Bill Veeck. Lopez wanted no part of it. Actor Faces $780,000 Damage Suit

NEW YORK (AP)—Actor-director Orson Welles is being sued for $780,000 by a Euro pean film company which accuses him of having held up production by carousing off and on the set.

The suit, which came to light Thursday in State Supreme Court when adidtional papers were filled, dates back to the 1954 filming of Mr. Arkadin. The producing firm, Filmorsa S.A. instigated suit in 1958, asserting:

The defendant did not re strict this drinking to night clubs. On a number of occa-sions he appeared on the set in an intoxicated condition and on some occasions brought liquor with him onto the set."

Lawyers for Welles issued a general denial. A hearing was set for next Monday.

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP)—Residents for at least 60 miles along the U.S. Canadian border were shaken early today by what seemed like an earth-quake. No damage was reported.

In the days of the Fulgencio Batista dictatorship, Havana had about 25 gambling casinos. They were a prime at traction for both tourists and underworld figures who operated them—with a cut of the profits going to government officials.

The casinos were closed down in the first days of Castro's regime early in 1959 but were reopened on a reduced scale to keep hotel employees and croupiers at work. At the end only about five were left and they operated in government run hotels.

Famed House Bequeathed To University

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

The picturesque Tudor-style house known as The Thatch at Royal Oak, and all its art treasures, will go to the University of British Columbia on the death of the present owner, John Maltwood.

JOHN MALTWOOD

The noble house will then be open to the public as the Maltwood Art Museum and will have a curator in charge. Originally known as the Royal Oak Inn, the Thatch was built in the style of a 14th century Hall House and opened when King George VI and Queen Elizabeth visited Victoria on May 30, 1939.

Mr. Maltwood, 95-year-old owner of The Thatch, disclosed today that, under the will of his wife, Katharine E. Maltwood, the sculptor, who died two months ago, the pro-perty will be handed over to UBC after his death.

"Until then it will continue to be a private residence, not open to the public," he said. Mr. Maltwood—an energetic white-haired man, who looks at least 20 years younger than his age—explained that he and his wife acquired The Thatch more than 20 years ago as a suitable home for her sculptures and other fine art treas-

Burgeoning Victoria College enrolment will hit 2,000 next year if it maintains it present pace.

Official enrolment for the current fall term was reported at 1,727, almost a 25 per cent increase over the 1,415 enrolment last academic year.

Present student body includes 1,097 in the arts and science faculty and 630 in the education faculty.

At the top of the driveway is a copper electrotype, "The Path of Enlightenment." by Mrs. Maltwood. When it was first placed there, a black-smith's forge stood opposite entrance to what will eventually be the Maitwood Museum.

"These are the beautiful things we acquired during 60 years of happy marriage," Mr. Maltwood said. "It is my fond hope that they will be treasured by posterity."

NAVY STAGES MORNING BCE Accepts Personnel of three RCN Pacific Command ships were, recalled from shore leave at 5.20 a.m. today in a small scale preview of a major recall to be held sometime before Tuesday, the Times learned today. Only official comment from the navy was that the action was "part of the exercise announced Wednesday." This was exercise "EDFEX-61," covering a period of five days starting Thursday last, designed to test the navy's readiness in the event of emergency. The 5.20 a.m. alert today was believed to have affected only the destroyer Margaree and frigates Sussexvale and Beacon Hill—although some officers and men thought it was the "big recall" which hasn't come as yet.

Taste Bread Made By One Of City's Pioneer Bakers By PENNY SAVER

Way back in 1887 a skilled and enterprising baker set up shop in what was then a hustling, busiling part of town. Today, 74 years later, he's still in the same business with two young grandsons trained to handle bulk of the work. To enter this store is to treat yourself to a bouquet of delicious aromas that is bound to leave you eager to try all the products that people brought up in Victoria, have known about for years and still flock in the hundreds to buy.

From original oven that started this family on their business career comes such a variety of breads that it's difficult to decide which to choose first. There's rye loaves that sell at 16 cents a pound, white and brown costing 15 cents a pound and a delicious French loaf, priced at 15 cents.

French bread is baked on the bricks at bottom of the oven to produce that crisp crust that makes this type a universal favorite. Baked in the same manner are Vienna and cob loaves. Vienna bread is priced at 15 cents a pound while côb loaf is 30 cents for a two-pound loaf.

Having tasted German pumpernickel bread I just had to get one of the two-pound loaves that sell at 32 cents. This bread, because it's made with sour dough instead of yeast, will last for a week. For women who like to keep a good supply in the house there are five pound loaves priced at 80 cents. Sliced thinly, they make the most delicious teat treat you can imagine. treat you can imagine

Another taste treat is the cinnamon buns that this family bakes every Thursday. They're practically a gift at 40 cents a dozen.

Wayne, one of the grandsons, warned me to remind would be customers that it's advisable to order your bread by phone during the morning. They're always so deluged with orders it's almost impossible to keep items on the

Blessing in the Home

ENJOY THE CONVENIENCE OF HAVING PLENTY OF HOT WATER-AUTOMATICALLY!

There's a tremendous difference between old-fashioned methods of heating water and a modern, automatic storage water heater. What a blessing it is to have all the clean hot water you need without the nuisance of lighting a fire. The water is always just right, too-thermostatically controlled so that it never gets dangerously over-heated. This convenience and safety cost less than you may think. The difference between an automatic storage water heater and what you are now putting up with, can make a lot of difference to life in your home. See your dealer or plumber.

Plenty of hot water from an automatic storage water heater

TODAY'S RECIPE HONEY DATE NUT BREAD

Two tablespoons butter, % cup honey, 1 egg, % cup sour milk, 1½ cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ cup dates, ½ cup nuts.

Cream the butter and add the honey. The more air you can beat into the honey and butter, the fluffier your bread will be. Add the beaten egg and mix well. Sift the dry ingredients together. Add the dry ingredients and the sour milk alternately beginning and ending with flour. Add the auts and dates last. Place in greased loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) A higher temperature would caramelize the honey and give a very brown crust.

HONEY BUTTER

Half cup butter, 1 cup honey. Let both butter and honey stand in a warm room until warm enough to blend well. Beat until well blended. Store in jar in refrigerator.

People who do this tend to waste a lot of time looking for signs and signals to warn them of good or had luck.

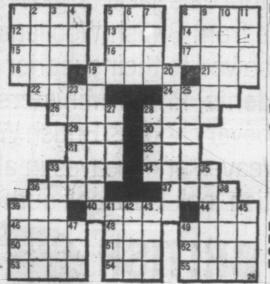

They tend to hand this information on to help the next generation of luck watchers. Some of these signs may prove to be true. For example, they say, it is bad luck to walk under a ladder. Indeed is, if there happens to be a sloopy painter splashing down laint from the top step.

IT WAS thrice-thrice welcome to see Garry Moore's hour-long show on CBC, Tuesday evening.

By thrice-thrice I mean there were Garry, Carol Burnett, and Durwood Kirby, the second thrice being taken up by Marton Lorne, Julie Andrews and Alan

And on top of the thrice thrice you can add the fact that this year one of TV's best shows of any type has been picked up by the CBC, meening that it will be reaching a goodly number of citizens via Channels 6 and 2 who were unable to pick it up on CBS Channels 7 and 15.

ULAN BATOR, Mongolia (AP)—Mongolians, from senior Communist officials to the lowliest yak herdsmen exhibit seemingly genuine surprise when their independ ence is questioned. They respond that their country of 937,000 people and 23,000,000 sheep, goats, carnels and yaks is completely sovereign.

Rivalry between Communist China and the Soviet Union over which is to be the dominant influence possi-bly allows Mongolia some independence it would not otherwise enjoy.

Both China and Russia, to avert an open tug-of-war over Mongolia, try to observe the niceties of dealing with an independent state. Partly as a result of this, Mongolia appears free to draft domestic policies of its own, though well within the framework of Marxist Leninist doctrine.

spawned conqueror Genghis Khan and ruled an empire stretching from Shanghai to the Danube River.

Mongolia now covers 606,000 square miles, an area not quite three times the size of France.

It is a landlocked country 2,000 miles from Moscow and the most remote, hard-to-get-to-land in the Communist empire. Communism came in 1921 when Soviet troops, pursuing White Russian army units, helped local revolutionaries form a Communist-style state.

With its vast pasture lands, the country continues to on livestock-raising as the mainstay of its economy. But Mongolia, where winter temperatures sometimes drop to 50 degrees below zero, now boasts some of the trap-pings of an industrial state, thanks to aid from China and Communist ideology, perhaps in part as a price to restrain the Chinese or Russians from seizing outright control. As for which of the two big powers plays a larger role here, Mongolia clearly favors Russia as a closer ally.

Attempt to Preserve Own Identity

Some recent developments, however, do suggest growing national sovereignty. Mongolia has opened diplomatic relations with nine states outside the Communist bloc in the last five years, bringing to 21 the number of countries with which it carries on diplomatic dealings. No Western state-not even neutral Switzerland-is on the Despite penetration of Communist economic organization into almost all phases of rural and town life, there is an apparent attempt to preserve a distinct Mongolian identity. Relatively few Russians or other nationalities have settled among the Mongolians.

Nasser Recalls Troops, Ships

Syrian Rebels Win

From Times News Services

BEIRUT, Lebanon-Syria's army rebels installed a new civilian government today and declared their independence of Cairo.

"The regime of tyranny has gone forever," said Damascus radio.

Accusing President Gamal Ahdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic of turning Syria into a prison, the broadcast said:

"We do not oppose Arab unity. We dispute your claim to Arab leadership."

(In Cairo, meanwhile, Nasser told a mass rally of 250,000 he had cancelled plans for large-scale military actions against Syria after provincial garrisons there joined in the rebellion.

All navy and paratroop forces en route to Syria had been ordered to return to Egypt. Nasser said he wanted to avoid seeing Arab against Arab.)

Syrian broadcasts declared 200 Egyptian paratroopers sent to put down the rebellion had been wiped out. Other broadcasts said 120 Egyptian commando invaders had been captured without bloodshed.

The broadcasts did not make clear whether they giving different versions of the same action, or whether two Egyptian forces were involved.

two Egyptian forces were involved.

The Jordan government of King Hussein, long an opponent of Nasser, quickly recognized the new revolutionary government, and wished it success.

Jordan's action was announced immediately after a cabinet meeting presided over by King Hussein.

There was speculation in London that Jordan might follow up her gesture of political support by sending material aid to the Syrian rebels unless the conflict with Nassar is quickly sattled. There also was speculation that Nasser is quickly settled. There also was speculation that other Middle East opponents of Nasser might follow Hussein's lead, particularly Premier Abdel Karim Kassem of Iraq.

Turkey, which has long hod misgivings as to Nasser's plans for a union of all Arab countries, was swift to follow Jordan in formally recognizing the new Syrian regime.

Internal Affair, Both Sides Agree

Hitherto neither Cairo nor Damascus has claimed any outside support for the two-day revolt. Both sides have spoken of it as an internal affair.

Now, observers said, it will be difficult for Jordan to sscape charges — irrespective of whether there is any truth in them — that it is helping the revolt.

The Communist world will then probably accuse Western imperialism of being behind the rebellion aimed at taking Syria out of the United Arab Republic.

Some British officers have said privately that any change and split up of the U.A.R. could only be for the worse and promote instability in the Arab world.

They feared that a weak independent Syria would be exposed to increasing Communist penetration.

The revolt, it was thought here, represents a serious blow to U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser's prestige and a serious setback to Arabs who see in the U.A.R. the best hope for uniting the Arab world.

Dr. Mamoun Kuzzari, a 47-year-old politician with a long record in Syrian cabinets before the 1958 merger with Egypt, took over as head of the new Syrian government with the blessings of the revolutionary command which staged the uprising at dawn Thursday.

He announced the formation of a cabinet of technicians, engineers and lawyers with only one other known politician among them — Leon Zamaria, a rightist and former finance minister in the 1955 government of Sabri Assali

New Chief Once Aided Leftists

Kuzbari is best known as a supporter of former dic-tator Adib Shishekly, but also served in a later leftist regime. He took the posts of foreign affairs and defence as well as premier.

Adnan Kuwatly-a 47-year-old kinsman of former president Shukri Kuwatly, who took the front role in the me with Egypt—was named interior minister.

Damascus radio, proclaiming the new government, assailed Nasser and accused him of seeking "to subordinate all Arabs in your empire."

Spelling out the aims of the revolution, the broadcast

"The Syrian army wants to restore to the Syrian people their freedom of speech and assembly . . . to bring back their freedom which you choked off with your secret police and intelligence agents."

Syrian rebel radio commentators let fly at Nasser

after a triumphant announcement that 200 Egyptian para-troopers sent by Nasser to help crush the revolt had been "annihilated on the spot."

The Damascus radio communique reporting the clash with the Egyptian paratroops said: The nigh command has announced in all its communiques its national aim and its belief in saving the unity of the Arab ranks. It has tried in all possible ways to keep the movement peaceful without bloodshed.

Earlier Nasser had vowed to crush the revolt. He ruled out any "bargain or compromise" with the Syrian rebeis. In a defiant broadcast he declared: "The United Arab Republic was not built on bargaining but rather on principle. I reject the logic of bargain and half solution."

Damascus radio denied charges by Nasser that the revolt was the work of a few mutinous officers and said that the whole Eyrian 1st Army had moved to liberate

Syria. "We refuse to be slaves in a Nasser pharaonic empire,"

It said the Syrians had decided "to rule ourselves by ourselves and move forward to true Arab nationalism and national socialism to secure the future for coming ages." Government spokesmen in both London and Washington said today it was too early to consider recognition of the new Syrian regime because facts on which recognition would be based were not yet available.

"In Washington the state department advised that all American citizens in Syria were believed to be safe. NASSER RECALLS TROOPS

Syria Declares Independence

From Times News Services

BEIRUT, Lebanon-Syria's army rebels installed a new civilian government today and declared their independence of Cairo.

"The regime of tyranny has gone forever," said Damascus radio.

Accusing President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic of turning Syria into a prison, the broadcast said.

"We do not oppose Arab unity. We dispute your claim to Arab leadership."

(In Cairo, meanwhile, Nasser told a mass rally of 250,000 he had cancelled plans for large-scale military actions against Syria after provincial garrisons there joined in the rebellion.

All navy and paratroop forces en route to-Syria had been ordered to return to Egypt. Nasser said he wanted to avoid seeing Arab against Arab.) Syrian broadcasts declared 200 Egyptian paratroopers sent to put down the rebellion had been wiped out. Other broadcasts said 120 Egyptian commando invaders had been captured without bloodshed.

The broadcasts did not make clear whether they were giving different versions of the same action, or whether two Egyptian forces were involved.

The Jordan government of King Hussein, long an opponent of Nasser, quickly recognized the new revolu-tionary government, and wished it success.

Jordan's action was announced immediately after a cabinet meeting presided over by King Hussein.

There was speculation in London that Jordan might follow up her gesture of political support by sending material aid to the Syrian rebels unless the conflict with Nasser is quickly settled. There also was speculation that other Middle East opponents of Nasser might follow Hussein's lead, particularly Premier Abdel Karim Kassem of Iraq.

Turkey, which has long had misgivings as to Nasser's plans for a union of all Arab countries, was swift to follow Jordan in formally recognizing the new Syrian regime.

Internal Affair, Both Sides Agree

Hitherto neither Cairo nor Damascus has clain any outside support for the two-day revolt. Both sides have spoken of it as an internal affair.

Now, observers said, it will be difficult for Jordan to escape charges—irrespective of whether there is any

The Communist world will then probably accuse Western imperialism of being behind the rebellion aimed at taking Syria out of the United Arab Republic. Some British officers have said privately that any change and split up of the U.A.R. could only be for the worse and promote instability in the Arab world,

They feared that a weak independent Syria exposed to increasing Communist penetration. The revolt, it was thought here, represents a serious blow to U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser's prestige and a serious setback to Arabs who see in the U.A.R. the best hope for uniting the Arab world.

Dr. Manoun Kuzbari, a 47-year-old politician with a ig record in Syrian cabinets before the 1958 merger with Egypt, took over as head of the new Syrian govern-ment with the blessings of the revolutionary command which staged the uprising at dawn Thursday.

Spelling out the aims of the revolution, the broadcast

"The Syrian army wants to restore to the Syrian people their freedom of speech and assembly . . . to bring back their freedom which you choked off with your secret

Syrian rebel radio commentators let fly at Nasser after a triumphant announcement that 200 Egyptian paratroopers sent by Nasser to help crush the revolt had been "annihilated on the spot."

The paratroopers made their airborne invasion at Latakia, a Mediterranean port about 140 miles north of Damascus, rebel broadcasts said in the first report of shooting in the two-day revolt.

The Damascus radio communicate reporting the clash with the Egyptian paratroops said. "The high command has announced in all its communiques its national aim and its belief in saving the unity of the Arab ranks. It has tried in all possible ways to keep the movement peaceful without bloodshed.

Earlier Nasser had vowed to cridio the revolt. He
